

North West Liberal Democrats Conference

At the ACE Centre, Pendle, on Saturday 16th October 2010

Lib Dems: In Coalition Government - Delivering on our manifesto

On the road to reform

Conference speakers include junior minister at the Dept of Communities & Local Govt Andrew Stunell MP (left) and Diversity Advisor Issan Ghazni

The North West Autumn Conference in Nelson this October will bring the regional party's members together for our first conference since the General Election.

With the new coalition government having an ambitious plan for many of the democratic reforms we have campaigned for - electoral change, an elected House of Lords, and more - it will be a chance to consider the new political landscape here in our region and to plan for the referendum on the new voting system anticipated in May 2011.

A central theme for our conference this time will be diversity. The party has made growing efforts both to make our parliamentary parties more reflective of the diversity of modern Britain, and to engage with the communities and life experiences of wider society. It's up to every member of the Lib Dems to help us grow and develop as a more reflective and diverse party. Here in the North West we have led the way and now every region of the party has an active 'Diversity Engagement Group'.

The party's Diversity Advisor Issan Ghazni and the Government's community cohesion minister Andrew Stunell MP will be speaking at the October conference.

Conference is open to all members, not just 'the great and the good', and as well as speakers and policy debates, offers a range of excellent training to help you learn about the party, our values, campaigning and more.
